Trees and Rocks

By Anne J. Wales

The natural colours featured in the painting depict nature, the Earth and its natural resources. This week we are celebrating World Environment Day. World Environment Day is held each year on the 5th June. It is one of the principal vehicles to stimulate worldwide awareness of the environment and enhance political attention and action.

It is celebrated to successfully get carbon neutrality, focusing on the forest management, reducing greenhouse effects, promoting bio-fuels production by planting on degraded lands, use of hydro-power to enhance electricity production, encourage common public to use solar water heaters, energy production through solar sources, developing new drainage systems, promoting coral reefs and mangroves restoration in order to get prevented from flooding and erosion including other ways of environmental preservation.

Wales is showing the how beautiful is the environment before degradation of the environment with issues like wastage and losses of food, deforestation, increasing global warming and so many. She encourage people to keep their nearby surroundings safe and clean to enjoy safer, cleaner and more prosperous future.
